Dear Fr. David and parishioners.

It's now just over 4 weeks since we moved away from Braintree to Kinross - a small town somewhere between Edinburgh and Perth.

I was very apprehensive about moving so far away having lived in Essex for 58 years, but within a week of moving here, felt settled. Our neighbours have welcomed us and the local running club, Kinross Road Runners, are a great bunch. Hilly runs are the norm and to think I used to complain about the hill at the Discovery Centre...

More than anything, I have found a new parish church - St.James. The parish priest is Fr. Martin, not a local but from Newton Aycliffe in Durham. While his sermons are interesting, they do not have the historical (some may say hysterical) content that I loved with Fr. David's! Even so, it seems to be a friendly parish and I think I will be happy here.

I will never forget the farewell from Fr. David and the parishioners who were at my last Mass on April 23rd. A chorus of Auld Lang Syne! I didn't know whether to laugh or cry, think it was a bit of both. Thank you.

I will remember you all in my prayers.

Best wishes

Brigid Wallen
